

NEW YORK

To Do: September 21–October 5, 2016

Twenty-five things to see, hear, watch, and read.

Published Sep 18, 2016

Art

1. See Yevgeniya Baras: All Inside of Itself, Close

Intensity and simple prettiness.

The one-block Broome Street stretch between Chrystie and the Bowery is laden with great galleries showing new artists. Case in point: the little gritty, glowing, magic-in-the-night paintings of newcomer Yevgeniya Baras. Visions between abstraction and figuration with bits of wood, bedsheets, and other detritus blend into metaphysical labyrinths of structure, shape, strokes, and precision all breaking off from meaning. —Jerry Saltz

Nicelle Beauchene Gallery, 327 Broome Street, through October 9.